

BIG SILVER FND.

The Navajo Reserve Likely to be the Scene of Stirring Times in the Near Future.

A Strike by Veteran Miners Which They Have Tried to Hide from the Eyes of the World.

An Army of Prospectors Being Organized to Take Possession and Hold Against the Indians.

Gallup (N. M.) Correspondence: It has been known for years that the Navajo reservation, lying half in this territory and half in Arizona, is very rich in minerals. Jewelers have long been familiar with the beautiful "Navajo garnets," which compare favorably with good grade Indian rubies and surpass the south African variety. They are picked up on the ant-hills in the Navajo country, being brought up by the ants. The same insect miners unearth occasionally a real spinel ruby. In some parts of the reservation period—a beautiful green semi-gem—are found in great profusion on the ant-hills, and among them now and then a valuable emerald. Opals of great brilliancy have been discovered there, and good diamonds, alleged to have been dug in a certain canyon there, have been exhibited in Santa Fe. The foundation is almost identical with that of the Kimberly diamond fields in south Africa.

Some rich gold strikes have unquestionably been made among these wild ranges, but have never been worked owing to the hostility of the Indians.

Hitherto what little prospecting has been done there has been by small parties, who carried their lives in their hands, and frequently had to give them up. Now, however, a move is making which bids fair to cause an excitement which will throw the Lower California fake in the shade, and may very probably involve a serious Indian war. The indications are that New Mexico will soon have on her hands a worse than Oklahoma boom.

Six weeks ago a party of fifteen prospectors left this place and struck north to the reservation, some twenty miles distant. They were well outfitted, and were all old-timers. Nothing was heard from them for so long that it was supposed they had shared the fate of unnumbered predecessors and fallen victims to the Navajos. A few days they returned alive, but uncommunicative. "Had they found anything?" No. "Indians trouble 'em any?" No. "Going back again?" No. No one could get any thing out of them. They were in quiet consultation with a couple of old time citizens; and next day disappeared, no one seemed to know whither. Soon after it began to be noticed that from every train, east or west bound, two or three more or less strangers disembarked, and all evidently veteran miners. From this clue the following facts have gradually been dug up, though they are kept secretly and have not yet leaked beyond Gallup. The matter is being engineered with remarkable skill, and if carried to its logical conclusion will give the two territories the biggest upheaval they have had for many a year.

The fifteen prospectors have found something and found it big. They prevailed upon when they said they didn't. It has long been more than suspected that there must be rich silver deposits in the reservation. It has frequently been noticed that among the countless silver ornaments which they hammer from United States coin, the Navajos have some of a much purer metal—silver so pure that a thick bridle ornament made of it can be bent as though it were tin. That means virgin silver somewhere, and the fifteen prospectors are now endeavoring to find it. If half they allege is true their discovery is one of the biggest silver strikes ever made anywhere. And they have the "stuff" to back their assertions. Fretful specimens of virgin silver in wire and leaves were never shown. It is immensely rich and they declare that the deposit is enormous. It lies ninety miles north of Gallup, in the Navajo mountains. As soon as these fifteen men got back to Gallup they began secret preparations for returning to the strike with sufficient force to hold it down. They had no trouble with the Indians, but came away at the earnest and armed suggestion of some 1500 Navajos. They are well aware that to make a permanent camp in the heart of a tribe of 20,000 Indians—and such Indians as the Navajos—is no child's play; and they will not start back till they have 500 picked men. They are coming by train from New Mexico and Arizona in answer to personal letters in the strictest confidence. George Christley is really the leader. He is a Socorro county miner whom the Navajos trust by bitter experience. He had occasion once to stand off a couple of hundred of them, and when he got through it was found necessary to bury several. Life of this place, another old timer, seems to be his right hand man. It is proposed, as soon as the necessary force is raised, to march to the embryo mine, fortify a camp there and hold it against all comers. At the same time a carefully organized effort is on foot to have the government segregate from the reservation and throw open to settlement a certain district, which shall include the new strike. An agent of the outfit is now in Washington on this business, and another will arrive there in a day or two.

Meantime the utmost secrecy is observed, and mum is the word all along the line. The presence of several companies of United States troops at Fort Wingate, only twelve miles from here, emphasizes the need of caution.

All who know the Navajos know that this step will inevitably end in trouble. They are jealous and hostile, quiet outside, but still addicted to "removing" unfortunate whites whom they catch in secluded spots. It has thus far been found impossible to keep them on the reservation, big as it now is, and a third of them are off it half the time. It doesn't appear that this difficulty would be lessened by lessening their reservation, and they would be apt to resist even a governmental segregation. The reservation is the richest stock country in New Mexico, wonderfully rich in coal, and well supplied with water and timber.

A Good Mining Story.

Denver Republican: "You may talk about nickel-plated railroads," said L. T. Stanley, "but what do you think of a solid silver wagon road?" The Horseshoe mine

In Colorado has one, although when it was built they didn't know it would pay out that way. They had to have a road from their mines, a distance of three miles, over which heavy loads had to be drawn. They took the rock that had been taken from the shafts they were sinking and which lay around in the way and made a macadamized road all the way through. The wagons passing over the road ground the rock down. One day they had a heavy rain-storm, and when things got dry again after this rain, the wind blew off the dust off the road, and all through the roadbed, every which way, they could see big streaks of silver. Well, maybe they didn't collar onto the rest of that loose rock that lay around those shafts. They sent away a lot of it to be assayed, and when the reports came back they found that their roadbed was worth $200 a ton. It was a little expensive to drive over, but they had to have the road, and I suppose they've got it yet, if their mines have held out."

DEATH'S MARK.

Soldiers Who Bore Signs of Their Approaching Fate.

Gen. de Trobriand, in his "Army Reminiscences," says: A small number of men carry the unmistakable mark of the near approach of the death awaiting them. They are not themselves conscious of it, and the number of those who can read these mysterious signs is very limited. Sometimes, in camp, I have tried to describe the mark to officers around me. I do not remember ever having convinced any one of the truth of my theory.

One rainy day I was conversing in my tent with Capt. Wilson, assistant adjutant general of my brigade. We were then marching on Fredericksburg. Lieut. Col. Gilly, commanding the Fifth Michigan, entered. He came simply on some detail of service, which was arranged in five minutes. When he had gone out, "Now," said I to my incredulous captain, "here's a chance to make a trial of my theory—Col. Gilly is marked."

The captain evidently thought nothing of it. But in the first battle Col. Gilly was killed before Fredericksburg while bravely leading his regiment in a charge. Of all those on whom I have recognized the mark—and there are many—one only may have escaped death.

If you ask me in what consists this mark I would find it difficult to reply. This fatal seal is imprinted rather on the general manner than on the features. It appears sometimes in the looks, at the bottom of which one divines the trembling of the soul about to depart; sometimes in the smile, in which appear the fleeting shadow of a cloud which does not belong to the earth; sometimes in certain movements, as if worn out; in certain languid acts, in which is betrayed the system of a task which reaches its end. Sometimes, on the contrary, the finger of death is shown by a feverish energy, without reason, forced laughter, jerky movements.

A Penalty of Vanity.

Louisville Post: I am told of a well known young lady here who is confined to her room and in much danger of losing her eyesight from the use of hair dye. She was originally a tall, handsome brunette, but in the past year has undergone a complete metamorphosis so far as her hair is concerned, and until lately appeared as a most pronounced blonde. It is as well known as any fact can be that hair dyes not only very frequently cause the loss of sight, but of the mind, and cases are frequently published of women having gone mad from the use of them. Notwithstanding this a great number of the young women of Louisville are to day subjecting themselves to the terrors for no other reason than that they are dissatisfied with the hair nature has given them. And the worst of it is the custom is rapidly increasing and there is no telling where it will end.

It Isn't So Now.

Episcopal Methodist: For the sake of those who may follow the foolish fashions of the day, it is well that an old English law was repealed nearly one hundred years ago. Until the year 1790 the following law was in force in England: "Whoever shall enter into bonds of matrimony any male subject of her majesty by means of a white paint, Spanish cotton, steel corsets, crinoline, high-heeled shoes or false hips, shall be prosecuted for witchcraft, and the marriage declared null and void."

A Scrap of Paper Saves Her Life.

It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her more, bought another and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 140 pounds. For further particulars send stamp to W. H. Cole, drugist, Fort Smith. Trial bottles of this wonderful discovery free at R. S. Hale & Co.'s drug store.

NEW ON THE WARPATH.

The Hoosier Editor Threatens the Life of a Luckless Correspondent.

Washington Special, April 8: John C. New, the Indianapolis editor who has been made consul general to London, was one of the principals in a sensational encounter in a room at the Riggs house within the past few nights. So carefully were the facts suppressed that but few people in Washington knew the details until today. It was almost a tragedy, and may yet, it is said, furnish exciting developments. While New's appointment was pending some very ugly charges against the editor and members of his family were published in St. Louis. New suspected that the story got currency through Charles Hedges, a nephew of ex-congressman of Ohio. Hedges during the campaign was the Associated Press representative at General Harrison's house, and since then has done not a little confidential work for the president. Whatever were New's grounds for suspicion, his rage towards Hedges was unbounded. He hunted for Hedges at the latter's hotel, and finding him had, left an urgent note asking Hedges to call on important business. Hedges got wind of what was up, and, purchasing a revolver, called to his aid a friend, a well known general who commanded an Irish regiment during the civil war. The two went to New's apartment, where they found the editor with his son, a prominent Indiana politician. Hedges denied all responsibility for the report. This apparently only increased New's anger, and in the altercation pistols were drawn by the principals on both sides simultaneously. A four-handed struggle ensued, ending in Hedges' friend, the general, disarming New, while Conner had pulled Hedges out of the room. Later Hedges was found lying in wait for New at the bottom of the hotel stairs.

"I know New will try to ruin me," said Hedges, desperately, "and I don't care what happens."

Next day New called upon the president and at the various departments, making a personal request that Hedges receive no federal appointment. These protests, it is understood, have since been lifted, but just why does not appear.

HOME TESTIMONY.

HELENA, Oct. 7, 1887.

I was suffering from an unusually bad cough, my lungs were sore and congested, and I consulted one of the best physicians in Helena, whose prescriptions failed to relieve me. I became alarmed, and at the suggestion of a friend purchased a bottle of Ayer's English Remedy for coughs, and after taking it according to directions was completely cured. I therefore cheerfully recommend it to all who are afflicted with a cough.

I had a racking cough and induced throat and bought a bottle of Ayer's English Remedy upon the recommendation of a friend, and was entirely cured by it. I consider it a never failing remedy for a cough.

Ayer's English preparations are for sale in Helena only by R. S. Hale & Co.

A Sure Cure for Piles.

Dr. Kirk's German Pile Ointment has cured Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Kirk's German Pile Ointment is prepared only for piles and itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents and $1 per box. Sold by R. S. Hale & Co., Helena.

Do you ever have pains in the back and joints? If you do, attend to them now, don't wait, delays are dangerous. Nip the disease in the bud and save your health and doctor's bills. A few doses of Oregon Kidney Tea will prevent Bright's Disease and insure you health, comfort and happiness. Sold by R. S. Hale & Co., wholesale and retail agents, Helena.

For chapped hands, roughness of the skin, pimples, or blotches of any kind on the face or other parts of the body, apply Duntan's Specific. It works like magic and is warranted by the druggist. Sold by R. S. Hale, wholesale and retail agents, Helena.

The C. I. St. L. & C. railway is also favorably known as the "Big Four." It is called the "Big Four" because it is the connecting link between the four great cities of the west, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, St. Louis and Chicago.

The experience of Dr. R. D. Whitley, an influential and prominent citizen of Martindale, North Carolina, will no doubt be perceived with interest by all who are afflicted with rheumatism. For years he has been subject to violent attacks of inflammatory rheumatism; on the first of February he had an attack, which settled in one of his knees and caused him unbearable pain for two days. He obtained a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm from W. M. Houston & Co., Mecklenburg City, N. C. He writes that it gave almost immediate relief, and gives Chamberlain's Pain Balm the highest praise and commends all persons troubled with like afflictions to use it and get relief. Sold by H. M. Padden & Co.

Many young ladies are ruining their complexion by the continued use of poisonous cosmetics and so-called face washes. The greater number of these preparations contain mineral poisons, that in time shrivels up the skin and give the appearance of disfigurement and old age. Duntan's Specific is not a paint, but a great beautifier, inasmuch as it removes all blemishes from the skin, instead of covering them. It cures chapped hands with one application. Sold by R. S. Hale & Co., wholesale and retail agents, Helena.

Calumet: So many marriages and ruptures of marriage have occurred of late that a report is now current to the effect that there are no eligible bachelors left in Chateau or vicinity. This is a mistake. All the ugly bachelors are married off, but there are stacks of real pretty ones still in the matrimonial market.

Job Work.

The INDEPENDENT job rooms are now the most complete in the territory. Within the past few weeks we have received a complete line of new type, and are now prepared to do both plain and fancy work on the shortest notice.

Chamberlain's Cough remedy will cure a cold in less time than any other treatment. Its effect is to loosen the cold, render the mucous less tenacious and easier to expectorate, and cause its expulsion from the air cells of the lungs. It also opens the secretions, allays the fever, and restores the system to a normal and healthy condition. Sold by H. M. Padden & Co.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria, When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria, When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria, When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Syrup of Figs Cleanses the System.

Syrup of Figs is Pleasant and Effective.

Use Syrup of Figs for Constipation.

Dyspepsia

Is one of the most prevalent of diseases. Few persons have perfect digestion. One of Ayer's Pills, taken after dinner, or a dose at night before retiring, never fails to give relief in the worst cases, and wonderfully assists the process of nutrition. As a family medicine, Ayer's Pills are unequalled.

James Quinn, 50 Middle St., Hartford, Conn., testifies: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years and consider them an invaluable family medicine. I know of no better remedy for liver troubles, and have always found them a prompt cure for dyspepsia."

Lucius Alexander, of Marblehead, Mass., was long a severe sufferer from Dyspepsia, complicated with enlargement of the liver, most of the time being unable to retain any food in his stomach. Three boxes of Ayer's Pills cured him.

Frederic C. Greener, of East Dedham, Mass., for several months troubled with Indigestion, was cured before he used half a box of these Pills.

Ayer's Pills,

PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.
